What can you do with a degree in English?

In a time of shifting media use and technology, there are few constants, but one that remains is that our engagement with the world is frequently mediated through text – through words. As such, strong writing and analytic skills are a valuable asset in any career, and your time spent honing those skills through written analysis of literature and interpretation of complex texts and other media is an investment in your future. St. Thomas English Majors and Honours graduates have gone on to graduate studies, teaching, social work, public relations, information studies, communications, human resources, law, medicine, theatre, film-making, commerce, banking, journalism, publishing, fashion, arts and event management, and even dentistry.

The breadth and depth of reading required for an English degree introduces you to new worlds and new people, giving you experiences of other times, places, and cultures. Research suggests that reading even increases your capacity for empathy and development of social skills. Careful attention to language and literary forms gives you crucial analytic, interpretive, and writing skills that you'll use for the rest of your life, whatever career you choose.

You can minor, major, or honour in English at St. Thomas. Within the Major and Honours programs, you can choose the general program or concentrate in creative writing.

Courses offered cover a diversity of texts and approaches to literature, language, writing, and reading across a range of fields and media: historical print literature before and after the year 1800 (pre-1800, post-1800), popular culture, literary theory, history of the English language, Canadian, American, and World literature in English (including from the West Indies, Africa, India), Creative Writing, Dramatic Literature, Film Studies, and Media Literacies. We also offer experiential learning opportunities, including an entire course abroad.

In this Handbook you'll find an outline of requirements for the Minor, Major, and Honours in English and worksheets to help you keep track of the requirements you need and the courses offered to fulfill them. Many courses fulfill two requirements. The Requirements Key indicates which requirements are fulfilled by each course. For more information, please email Dr. Matte Robinson, Department Chair (englishchair@stu.ca).

in 2023-2024

ENGL 2163: Envisioning Environmental End-Times (ENVS) It may be impossible to represent the scale, timespan, and complexity of climate change. And yet, as a direct corollary, scientists and storytellers have made myriad attempts: avantgarde poetry, apocalyptic film, realist novels, abstract sculpture, and heat maps, among other forms. This course explores how these media experiments have tried and failed to represent the reality of environmental collapse, and considers the consequences for our understanding of language, truth, and the planet's very existence. (Post-1800)

ENGL 2603: A Course of English Literature. This course surveys the portrayal of English Culture from Roman times to the present, but instead of a standard linear, clock-tick movement, we cover these epochs in asynchronous time.

ENGL 3923: Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. In this course we will study one of medieval England's "bestsellers," Geoffrey Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, in detail. The Tales respond to the social tumult and linguistic shifts of Chaucer's day with a colourful cast of characters who pushed English literature into the limelight of the European literary milieu. As a whole, the Tales offers a truly panoramic view of medieval English society that raises issues of class, gender politics, race, political satire, sex, and social unrest. Over the semester you will develop your knowledge of medieval literature, The Canterbury Tales, and your skills in reading Middle English. Open to all students with second year standing (24ch) regardless of major.

ENGL 2403: Reading and Responding to Indigenous Literatures. Students will engage with texts by Indigenous writers such as Thomas King, Richard Wagamese and Rita Joe, by writing both creative and analytical responses, which will be read and discussed in class. (Post-1800; Canadian/American) NB: Students who have received credit for ENGL 1903 may not also take ENGL 2403 for credit.

Honours Seminars in 2023-2024

Honours seminars are reserved for students in our Honours Program. However, some years there is limited availability for majors with strong GPAs and Honours students from other departments to join these courses.

ENGL 4586: A Janus-Faced Look At Media (post-1800)

Fulfills 6ch

Our post-1800 seminar for 2023-2024, this intensive look at the millennium's first major experimental novel performs two roles under two professors: it serves as master class in the study of literature, and it passes through the open door to the study of rapidly-expanding digital media.

ENGL 4756: Public Women, Scandalous Mem. (pre-1800)

Staff

Fulfills 6ch

Public Women, Scandalous Memoirs looks at the many ways that women in the long eighteenth-century used the emerging form of the novel to record their experiences and resist dominant narratives regarding expected patterns of female life.

Additional Pathway into the English Program

Reminder: ENGL 1023: Introduction to the Study of Literature is a NEW 3-credit-hour introductory English course. Now you may take ENGL 1023 along with any one of the following: ENGL 1003 or ENGL 1203 to fulfill the 6-credit-hours required at the first-year level for the English Minor, Major, or Honours program. Or, take the 6-credit-hour (full-year) ENGL 1016 English Literatures in Culture and History. Students cannot receive credit for both ENGL 1016 and ENGL 1023; take one or the other, but not both.

Courses Offered in 2023-2024

English program requirements ensure that students complete courses in:

- Pre-1800 literature
- Post-1800 literature
- Canadian or American literature

Honours students are further required to take courses in:

- Language
- Literary Theory

Requirement codes

- Pre = Pre-1800 courses
- Post = Post-1800 courses
- C/A = Canadian / American courses
- Lang = Language courses
- CW = Creative Writing courses
- DrLit = Dramatic Literature courses

Department Codes indicate that a course is cross-listed with another program (e.g. the department code IRSH means a course is cross-listed with the Irish Studies program).

Please note: Other departments may offer their own courses that are cross-listed with English. To confirm that a course is cross-listed, check the University Calendar or consult with Dr. Matte Robinson (Department Chair, englishchair@stu.ca).

Also note: Sometimes courses are cancelled after the production of this Handbook. Check Web Advisor for the authoritative list of courses offered.

Programs in English: Overview

Students may elect to do a

- Minor
- Major
- Major with a Concentration in Creative Writing
- Honours
- Double Honours
- Honours with a Concentration in Creative Writing
- Certificate of Honours Standing

The English Department offers courses at three levels: introductory, intermediate, and advanced.

First-Year (Introductory) Courses

Courses at the introductory level, numbered in the 1000-range, are intended for first-year or beginning students of English. (Note: ENGL 1013 is open only to ESL students and is not part of the English program.) Six credit hours (6ch) of Introductory English courses are required for the Minor, Major and Honours in English, as follows: ENGL 1016: English Literatures in History and Culture; or, instead of ENGL 1016, students may choose to take ENGL 1023: Introduction to English in combination with one other first-year English course (either ENGL 1003: Introduction to Theatre, ENGL 1203: Introduction to Film Studies, or ENGL 1903: Reading and Responding to Indigenous Canadian Literature). Note: Students cannot receive credit for both ENGL 1016 and ENGL 1023.

ENGL 1016 (or ENGL 1023 in combination with one of the other first-year English courses listed above) is the prerequisite to ENGL 2013.

Second-Year (Intermediate) Courses

ENGL 2013: Research Methods in English is prerequisite for advanced courses and is required for the Minor, Major and Honours programs in English.

All other courses at the intermediate level, numbered in the 2000-range, are non-required, general interest courses open to students who have completed ENGL 1016 (or ENGL 1023 in combination with one of the other first-year English courses listed above) and are planning to Minor, Major, or Honour in English, as well as to students following other programs who have completed any 24ch of courses at the 1000-level.

Third- and Fourth-Year (Advanced) Courses

Courses at the advanced level, numbered in the 3000-range, are normally open only to students who have completed ENGL 2013.

Honours seminars, numbered in the 4000-range, are open to students who have been accepted into the Honours program and to Majors on application (see below).

Honours seminars are limited in enrolment to 15 students in each seminar in order to emphasize active research, writing, and formal oral presentations. Normally, two seminars are offered each year.

If Honours students have not filled all seminar spaces, students Majoring in English with a GPA of 3.4 or higher may apply to be enrolled in an Honours seminar. To do so, submit the “Majors Application for Honours Seminar” form included in this Handbook to Dr. Andrea Schutz (Honours Advisor: New Applications, englishchair@stu.ca).

Other 4000-level courses include ENGL 4153: Senior Project in Creative Writing, normally open only to students pursuing the Major or Honours with a Concentration in Creative Writing.

Students who have already graduated with an English Major may return to St. Thomas for one year to complete a “Certificate of Honours Standing,” as described later in this Handbook.

More about the Major or Honours with a Concentration in Creative Writing

We believe that creative writing, as well as analytic writing, lies at the heart of a liberal arts program. Along with the academic practice of analyzing texts, students at St. Thomas have the opportunity to produce creative texts and/or to witness readings by not only established authors, but also writers among their peers.

We also believe that any student completing a Major in English should take a variety of literature courses. For that reason, we require students following the Concentration in Creative Writing to fulfill almost all of the usual requirements of the Major or Honours in English.

To register for your first course in Creative Writing, you must have the permission of the instructor, which is usually based on a portfolio of your creative writing. For details, contact the Department's Creative Writing Advisor, Dr. Matte Robinson (englishchair@stu.ca).

To follow the Concentration in Creative Writing, you should consult with the Department's Creative Writing Advisor, Dr. Matte Robinson (englishchair@stu.ca) in the weeks prior to Registration in your second year. You will be advised of the appropriate courses to take in the following year(s).

About the Requirement Worksheets

The following pages contain worksheets to help you calculate which English courses you should take in order to fulfill each program's specific requirements. (Note: On the worksheets, "cb" means "credit hours." Course numbers ending in "3" count as 3ch and those ending in "6" count as 6ch.)

Step One: Find the worksheet for your chosen program.

Step Two: On the worksheet for the program in English you wish to pursue, list all the English courses you've taken so far.

Step Three: With the aid of the list you just made, fill out the requirements section of the worksheet.

Step Four: Decide which English courses to register in for the coming year based on the requirements you still need to fulfill. Then choose your electives. Add these to your Worksheet.

Step Five: If you plan to Major in English, speak to Dr. Matte Robinson (Department Chair, englishchair@stu.ca) or another English Department faculty member for guidance.

If you plan to pursue the Creative Writing Concentration, contact Dr. Matte Robinson (englishchair@stu.ca).

If you wish to apply to enter the Honours program, you must make an advising appointment with Dr. Andrea Schutz (Honours Advisor: New Applications, schutz@stu.ca) before registering. See the "Honours Program: Overview" later in this Handbook for Honours application dates and procedures.

If you are already in the Honours program, you will receive an email in March from Dr. Katherine Thorsteinson (Honours Advisor: Returning Students, thorsteinson@stu.ca) to set up an advising meeting.

Minor in English Worksheet

A minimum of 18ch in ENGL courses is required, including 6ch at the first-year level (ENGL 1016, or ENGL 1023 and one of ENGL 1003, ENGL 1203, ENGL 1903), ENGL 2013, and 6ch at the 3000-level or above. The remaining 3ch may be taken from any ENGL courses (including cross-listed courses).

Honours Program: Overview

Consider applying for the Honours program in English if you have completed

- 6ch at the first-year level (either ENGL 1016, or ENGL 1023 and one of ENGL 1003, ENGL 1203, or ENGL 1903); and
- ENGL 2013 in second-year by the end of June.

To qualify, you need an average of 3.4 in your ENGL courses so far.

An Honours degree on your transcript can open the door to graduate study or post-graduate professional programs.

As an Honours student, you undertake an intensive program of study. You will receive individual advising before Registration for your third and fourth years, and will be assisted in designing a program of study that fulfills the program requirements, while also appealing to your interests.

You benefit from taking one limited-enrolment seminar course in each of your third and fourth years. Seminars and advanced writing classes accept no more than fifteen students, so you have more opportunities to exchange new ideas and undertake substantial research projects.

The Department of English offers several kinds of Honours programs:

1. Honours
2. Double Honours (with Honours in another discipline)
3. Honours with a Concentration in Creative Writing
4. A Certificate of Honours Standing (see below for eligibility).

Students must declare their Honours subject to the Registrar at the beginning of third year (or after the completion of 60 credit hours). Before declaring an intention to Honour in English, and before registering for courses in both third and fourth year, students must receive advising and program approval (see “Instructions for Honours Applications,” below).

Note: If you are already in Honours English but your GPA in English courses drops below 3.4 you may be asked to leave the Honours program.

Instructions for Honours Applicants

Honours advising appointments will be scheduled from March 16-24, 2023.

If you are applying to enter the Honours program in English, please bring the following documents to: Dr. Andrea Schutz (Honours Advisor: New Applications), if you booked a Teams appointment, or by email to: schutz@stu.ca:

- a copy of your academic transcript (e.g. a legible screenshot from Web Advisor will do);
- a brief statement explaining why you wish to pursue an Honours program in English;
- a sample of your scholarly writing (send one or two of your best university essays—they don't have to be the ones marked up by your prof); and
- a completed “Application for Honours Program” form (in this Handbook).

After that, please contact our Administrative Assistant Barb Haines (either on Teams or by emailing bhaines@stu.ca, who will set you up with a Teams meeting with Dr. Matte Robinson.

If you are already in the Honours program, you will receive an email in March from Dr. Katherine Thorsteinson (Honours Advisor: Returning Students, thorsteinson@stu.ca) to set up an advising meeting.

Certificate of Honours Standing in English

Students who have already graduated with a Major may return to St. Thomas for a year to complete a Certificate of Honours Standing. This program will require individual students to make up any of the requirements that they have not met while completing their Major. It can usually be completed in one academic year. Re-admission to the University is required before students can register for courses toward the Certificate in Honours Standing.

For more information, contact Dr. Andrea Schutz (Honours Advisor: New Applications, schutz@stu.ca).

Department of English Guidelines for Honours Thesis

Revised February 2009

Honours students in the Department of English are not required to undertake a thesis. Should a student who has demonstrated outstanding ability wish to do so, the following guidelines apply:

1. The student consults potential thesis supervisors in the Department of English during the second semester of their third year. A list of eligible faculty members may be obtained from the Department Chair.
2. A proposal shall be submitted by May 30 of the student's third year presenting a tentative thesis statement and outline of the project (2-3 pages) and a preliminary bibliography.
3. The proposal shall be reviewed by the supervising professor and the Department within one week of submission. Proposals may be approved, tentatively approved subject to revision, or rejected. The student shall be immediately notified of the Department's decision by the Department Chair.
4. If the proposal is approved, the Department Chair shall immediately arrange with the Registrar's Office for the student to be enrolled in ENGL 4996: Honours Thesis (ENGL 4196: Honours Thesis in Creative Writing) in the case of a Creative Writing Thesis).
5. If the proposal is approved, the Department shall immediately agree on the second reader.
6. The student shall immediately consult the supervising professor to establish a meeting schedule, summer reading plan, and deadlines for submission of individual chapters. Theses should be between 50 and 60 pages long, double-spaced (12-pt font), and include a bibliography.
7. The first complete draft of the thesis shall be submitted to the supervisor and the second reader no later than February 15. The student and thesis supervisor are responsible for developing a set of interim deadlines for submission that will ensure that this deadline may be met.
8. Two copies of the completed thesis shall be submitted by March 31.

An oral examination day immediately following the University's final examination period will be scheduled annually by the Department. Each oral examination will be conducted by the thesis supervisor and second reader. Oral examinations will be advertised in advance, and anyone may attend.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: My course fulfils two or three requirements.
How do I decide which one to use it for?

A: You can use it for all of them; you don't have to choose just one.

Q: What courses should I take if I'm thinking about going to graduate school?

A: The normal requirement for entry into graduate school is an honours degree. Many universities also expect that students entering graduate school will have broad coverage of periods, courses in Canadian and/or American literature, and in literary theory. If you think you'd like to consider graduate school, feel free to speak to Dr. Matte Robinson (Department Chair, englishchair@stu.ca) or any member of the Department.

Q: How much should I budget for books?

A: This varies from course to course, but a general guideline is to expect to need $100 for expenses for each course.

Q: How do I obtain a letter of reference from a professor?

A: Professors regularly write letters of reference for students applying for scholarships, professional programs, or graduate school, and we're happy to do so. Choose a professor who knows you well, and for whom you have done your best work, and ask if they can give you a strong reference.

The professor will need to have the form, if there is one, or details including address and due date, well in advance of the deadline (several weeks, if possible). We need you to fill out in advance any part of the form that asks for your name or the program for which you are applying.

You should ask each professor whether there is additional information needed, such as a c.v., a copy of your transcript, and an essay you have written related to your intended course of graduate or professional study.

Sometimes, we send the reference directly to the university to which you are applying; sometimes we provide the letter to you in a sealed envelope. References are generally confidential.

After a professor has done one reference for you, it is much easier to do several more, so don't be concerned about asking one professor to do multiple references.
