umns and book-length journalistic studies of Canadian politics and public policy. Throughout his extraordinary career, Camp always found time to encourage and support young journalists. The Dalton K. Camp Endowment in Journalism provides funding for scholarships and bursaries for journalism students, for the development of journalism internships, and for a distinguished lecture series that is broadcast nationally on the CBC.

F. Graduate and Professional Preparation

Specific undergraduate course work is often required for admission to graduate and professional programs. St. Thomas students have the opportunity to include in their undergraduate programs not only the courses required for admission to the St. Thomas professional programs, but also those required for a broad range of graduate and professional programs offered by other Canadian universities. Examples of the professional programs for which St. Thomas students can qualify include:

Architecture	Journalism
Business Management (MBA)	Law
Communications Disorders	Law Enforcement
Counselling	Medicine
Dental hygiene	Occupational Therapy
Dentistry	Pharmacy
Education	Physiotherapy

Psychiatry Public Relations Social Work Veterinary Medicine X-ray Technology

Admission to these programs is generally limited and competitive. High academic standing is required. A summary of the University courses generally required for admission to these professional programs can be obtained from the St. Thomas Admissions Office. Students should also consult current calendars for details regarding specific prerequisites and application deadlines at the graduate and professional schools to which they intend to apply.